Dear {Manager},

I would like to enroll in the Certified Geopolitical Risk Manager (CGR™) program to strengthen my capability in analysing geopolitical risks, anticipating global disruptions, and supporting more informed strategic decision-making within our organisation. As geopolitical developments increasingly influence markets, supply chains, investments, and regulatory environments, developing specialised expertise in this area will enable me to better assess emerging threats, identify strategic opportunities, and contribute to stronger organisational resilience.

Led by Dr. Philip Cunliffe, recognised authority on Geopolitical Risk and Global Strategy, this executive program delivers practical expertise in geopolitical intelligence, strategic forecasting, and enterprise risk management. The curriculum examines global power shifts, political and country risk, security dynamics, sanctions, geoeconomic competition, energy security, cyber threats, supply chain resilience, and geopolitical crisis management. Through real-world case studies and scenario-based simulations, I will gain practical frameworks to evaluate geopolitical developments, anticipate their business implications, and support executive-level decision-making with greater confidence. Some of the key skills this program will bring include:

- Geopolitical Risk Assessment & Forecasting
- Political & Country Risk Analysis
- Strategic Intelligence & OSINT
- Scenario Planning & Horizon Scanning
- Supply Chain & Energy Security Risk
- Corporate Geopolitical Risk Frameworks

I believe these skillsets will prove invaluable to me and you can be assured that after attending this online program, I will be better equipped to make stronger risk-informed recommendations, improve our preparedness for geopolitical disruptions, and contribute more effectively to strategic planning, operational resilience, and business continuity. The practical knowledge gained will also strengthen our ability to respond proactively to an increasingly uncertain global operating environment while supporting long-term organisational objectives.

I look forward to gaining your approval to attend this virtual training program.

Sincerely,
